

FIVE COLLEGES SEEKING PLACE IN BIG RACES

WISCONSIN, PENNSYLVANIA, COLUMBIA, SYRACUSE AND CORNELL IN LINE.

FOUR-OARED TO CORNELL

Freshmen and Varsity Races the Most Interesting of the Day—Rowed at Poughkeepsie.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 2.—The state of the intercollegiate rowing world met in their annual regatta at Poughkeepsie today. In this annual clash, which brings Cornell, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Columbia, Georgetown into action. For three weeks the crews have been on the Hudson in preparation for the events. Time rowing has been stopped, but coaches hold very closely to their schedules. Pennsylvania and Syracuse are expected to have the strongest chance of beating Cornell, the favorite for the varsity races. But Wisconsin looms up as a formidable.

Cornell's Courtney thinks his Cornell youngsters one of the best eight in the world in recent years, and the same may be said of the Columbia and Pennsylvania crews. The Quakers have shown exceptionally good form, and in their credit rather than to the discredit of the varsity it should be said that they attract almost as much attention on the water as their elders. Neither Syracuse nor Wisconsin have shown form that makes them look particularly formidable.

Cornell is even a more decided favorite for the four-oared than the varsity race. This is due to the fact

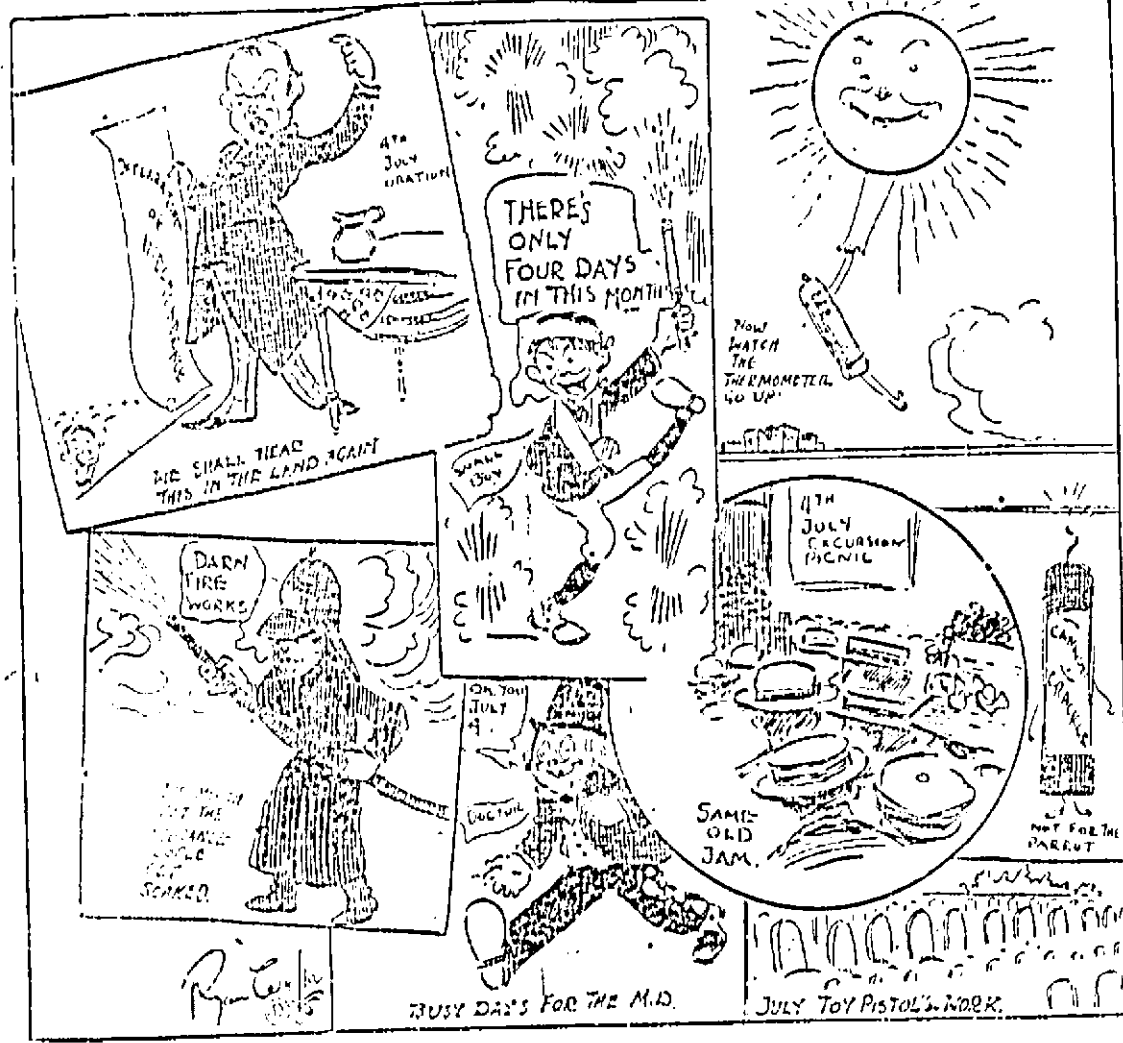

SPANISH PRETENDER IS INCURABLY ILL

Don Carlos, Who Once Sought Throne Now Lies At Death's Door In Italy.

Madrid, July 2.—The news that Don Carlos, the pretender to the throne of Spain, is incurably ill in Italy has been received with much interest here. The pretender has been in poor health for a long time, but until this week did it become publicly known that he is suffering from cerebral paralysis and that his death may come at any moment.

Don Carlos has been heard of but little of late years, but the time when he was one of the most prominent figures in European politics, and his possible influence has never been lost sight of in any Spanish situation. The career of Don Carlos has been filled with vicissitudes. At times he has had untold wealth at his command and at other times he has felt the bitter sting of poverty. At one time he seemed very close to realizing his ambition to become king of Spain. Following the example of his grandfather, Charles V., and his uncle, Charles VI., who fought for what they considered their rights for years, Don Carlos took up arms in 1872 and, as Charles VII., reigned over the greater part of northern Spain till 1876, when being nearly surrounded by the forces of Alfonso XII., who recently had been proclaimed king in Madrid, he retired into France.

Don Carlos has been married twice. His first wife was a great lady of France, the Princess de Bourbon. They were married in 1867, and for many years after that they were very poor. In order to buy bread Don Carlos was obliged to sell the badge

EPWORTH LEAGUERS TO INVADE SEATTLE

Fifteen Thousand of Delegates and Visitors to Convention to Be in City Next Thursday.

Seattle, Wash., July 2.—Seattle is preparing to entertain an enormous crowd of visitors next week on the occasion of the Eighth International convention of the Epworth League. The league is the largest denominational society of young people in the world and its conventions attract thousands of delegates and visitors from all parts of the United States and Canada and from foreign countries as well.

The convention will have its formal opening next Thursday. The official program covers four days of song and service, but the diversions and amusements will be extended several days longer. An attendance of from ten to fifteen thousand delegates is expected. Special trains for the visitors will be run through from Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco and other points. Elaborate plans are being made for the entertainment of the visitors. Never before have the Methodists of the northwest taken such interest in a religious event.

The president of the league is Bishop W. A. Quayle of Oklahoma City, who will preside at the main sessions of the convention. A number of other bishops of the M. E. church will take part, among them Bishop E. H. Hendrix of Kansas City, Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of San Francisco, Bishop W. H. Warren of Denver, and Bishop William P. Anderson of Chattanooga.

The list of lay speakers is headed by Senator H. L. Bristow of Kansas, who will speak on the subject, "Christ in the Nation." Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington will be another prominent speaker.

The convention will have more than the usual number of musical features. These will include two public performances of the oratorio, "El Nino," to be given on the opening and closing nights of the convention.

Landslide Occurs While Men Are Working on Dock—Reports Are Meagre.

Newport, Monmouthshire, Ebor.—A landslide occurred here this afternoon while working on the new dock. It is reported that nearly one hundred men were buried alive.

DEADLOCK PROMISED IN EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Council Wants License to Sell at $200 but Mayor and Clerk Refuse to Issue Them.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 2.—The city council last night by a vote of 11 to 8, contrary to the advice of City Attorney Larson and contrary to a majority report of the committee, decided to fix the wholesale liquor license at $200 instead of $500. The mayor and the city clerk will refuse to issue licenses at $200.

BUYS THE SITE FOR MADISON HOSPITAL

Sister Ignatius, Who Has Charge of Mercy Hospital Here, to Build $200,000 Hospital in Capital City.

Madison, Wis., July 2.—Sister Ignatius, formerly of Janesville, now head of the Mercy hospital here, announced today the purchase of a site overlooking Lake Monona for the new $200,000 Mercy hospital building.

ANNUAL RELIGIOUS CONFERENCE BEGINS

Students of Big Colleges at Opening of Big Meeting in Northfield, Mass.

Northfield, Mass., July 2.—The twenty-seventh session of annual religious gatherings established here by the late Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, began today with the opening of the summer student conference. The attendance at the opening included college men representing most of the eastern states and universities. The student conference will last ten days and will be followed in turn by the young women's conference, women's conference, women's home missionary conference, summer school for women's foreign missionary societies, summer school for Sunday school workers, and the general conference of Christian workers.

Many prominent persons will address these conferences, among them Canon Cody of Toronto, Dr. Arthur T. Pearson of Brooklyn, Dr. Frank W. Gammon of Chicago, Rev. G. A. Johnston-Ross of Cambridge, England, and Rev. J. Stuart Holden of London, and Dr. W. T. Greenleaf, the noted Labrador missionary.

NATIONAL TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY TO OPEN

Hundreds Gather in Beautiful City of Denver for Convention of National Educational Association.

Denver, Colo., July 2.—During the past twenty-four hours hundreds of school teachers have arrived in Denver for the annual convention of the National Educational Association. The National Council of Education will meet tomorrow, but the association proper will not begin its sessions until Monday. In the meantime many of the teachers have gone on short jaunts to Manitou, Colorado Springs and other resorts. From all indications the convention will be one of the largest ever held by the association. Many educators of wide prominence are scheduled to address the main sessions and the many departmental conferences which make up the convention.

MORE SHOCKS WERE REPORTED IN SPAIN

Three Distinct Vibrations Reported—People of Messina Return to Homes.

Alcantara, Spain, July 2.—Three earth shocks were felt here yesterday afternoon. At Torrevieja and the surrounding towns the walls of many of the houses were cracked and other damage sustained. So far as is known there were no casualties.

Return to Towns

Messina, July 2.—The people of Messina, although still alarmed, as a result of the earth shocks yesterday morning, are beginning to return from the country. The shocks continue today, but they are less frequent and of diminishing severity.

QUESTION OF LOCAL OPTION INTERESTING

All Louisville Awaits Outcome of Election in Fifty-First Precinct Today.

Louisville, Ky., July 2.—A lively interest is manifested in the local option election today in the fifty-first precinct in this city. The precinct is in the heart of Louisville's most fashionable section and at present there is not a saloon in its boundaries. The importance of the contest lies in the fact that it is regarded as the opening wedge in the campaign undertaken by the anti-saloon interests to make the whole of Louisville "dry."

DANISH-AMERICANS CELEBRATE FOURTH

American Citizens of Danish Birth to Have Big "Dolingo" in Copenhagen.

Copenhagen, July 2.—Crown Prince Christian and suite are going to Aarhus tomorrow to attend the Fourth of July celebration to be held in connection with the national exposition now in progress in that city. The celebration has been arranged by the Danish-American association, all whose members are citizens of the United States and of Danish birth.

A dispatch from Aarhus says that the hotels there are already filled with visitors, and many private homes have been thrown open to accommodate the overflow. Included among the visitors are more than 1,000 Danish-Americans from Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Dakota, Oregon and other parts of the United States.

On the day of the celebration Mayor Hreschek, president of the exposition, will welcome the Danish-Americans and Mrs. Hreschek, of Chicago, will respond. In the afternoon there will be several noteworthy addresses. Count Carl Moller, Danish minister to the United States, will speak of "The American From a Danish Point of View." Ivan Kirkgaard, of Ruche, Wis., will give a brief history of "The American of Danish Descent." Carl Andersen, of Chicago, will speak on "Our Homes in the United States," and Carl Hansen, of Tyler, Minn., will follow with an account of "The Danish-American of the City." Maurice Francis Egan, United States minister to Denmark, "The American of Danish Descent," Theodore Brodbeck, "The Call of the Outer World," George Brandes, the noted author, "The Call of the Home."

The musical parts of the program will be furnished by singers of the Danish royal opera, who will be assisted by a large chorus. The exercises will conclude with the singing of the Danish national hymn and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

ACCUSERS WERE MEN DISMISSED

INSPECTION OF MEAT AT EAST ST. LOUIS IS ALRIGHT.

REPORT IS MADE TODAY

Shows Accusation Against Inspectors Was Not Grounded on Facts.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—The committee appointed by Secretary Wilson, composed of Dr. A. D. Melvin of the Bureau of Animal Industry and George H. McCabe, solicitor of the department, which investigated the charges of J. P. Harms that the federal meat inspection service at East St. Louis was "rotten and a farce," today reported the inspectors there were honest men performing their duties efficiently, and that no meat had been passed which was unfit for human food. As a result of the report Secretary Wilson has ordered the summary dismissal of Meat Inspectors Harms and Blasehof and Veterinary Inspector Michael.

WARRANTS OUT FOR PRISON OFFICIALS

Coroner's Jury Decided John Smith's Death Was Caused by Ill Treatment Received.

Green Bay, Wis., July 2.—A warrant was issued by Municipal Judge Monahan at noon today for the arrest of O. E. Hixson and Frank Boyd of the Green Bay reformatory charged with manslaughter, following the verdict by the jury in which it was found that the death of John Smith was due to cruel and inhuman treatment received at the institution.

GASOLINE EXPLODES; WOMAN BADLY BURNED

Oil Used to Clean Chicken Coop Ignites When Match Is Lit And Woman Suffers Severe Injuries.

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 2.—Mrs. A. Lang and her grandson, Earl Ditter, were burned in a gasoline explosion yesterday afternoon at the Lang residence. The woman had used some gasoline to clean the walls of a chicken coop and intended to disinfect the place by burning some sulphur. When she ignited the sulphur the gasoline exploded, burning the left side of her body nearly to a crisp and also burning the hair of her grandson. This morning the woman was said to be in a critical condition.

SUMMER HOTEL AT LAKE PLACID BURNS

Fifty Guests of Big Hostelry at New York Summer Resort Have Hard Time Getting Out.

Lake Placid, N. Y., July 2.—The Hotel Rubensmont, one of the largest hotels at Lake Placid, was burned last night. Some fifty guests were rescued with great difficulty. One man was fatally burned.

POLITICS CAUSED A SENSATIONAL CRIME

Indian Office Believe Shooting Was Result of Plotting in London, July 2.—Madar Lalot Dhillani, the Indian student who last night shot and killed Lieutenant Colonel Sir William Hutt Curzon Wyllie and Dr. Charles La Lencue of Shanghai, was this morning remanded for one week after being formally charged with murder. At the Indian office the murder is held to be entirely political in nature.

MICHIGAN BANKRUPT; MONEY SOON NEEDED

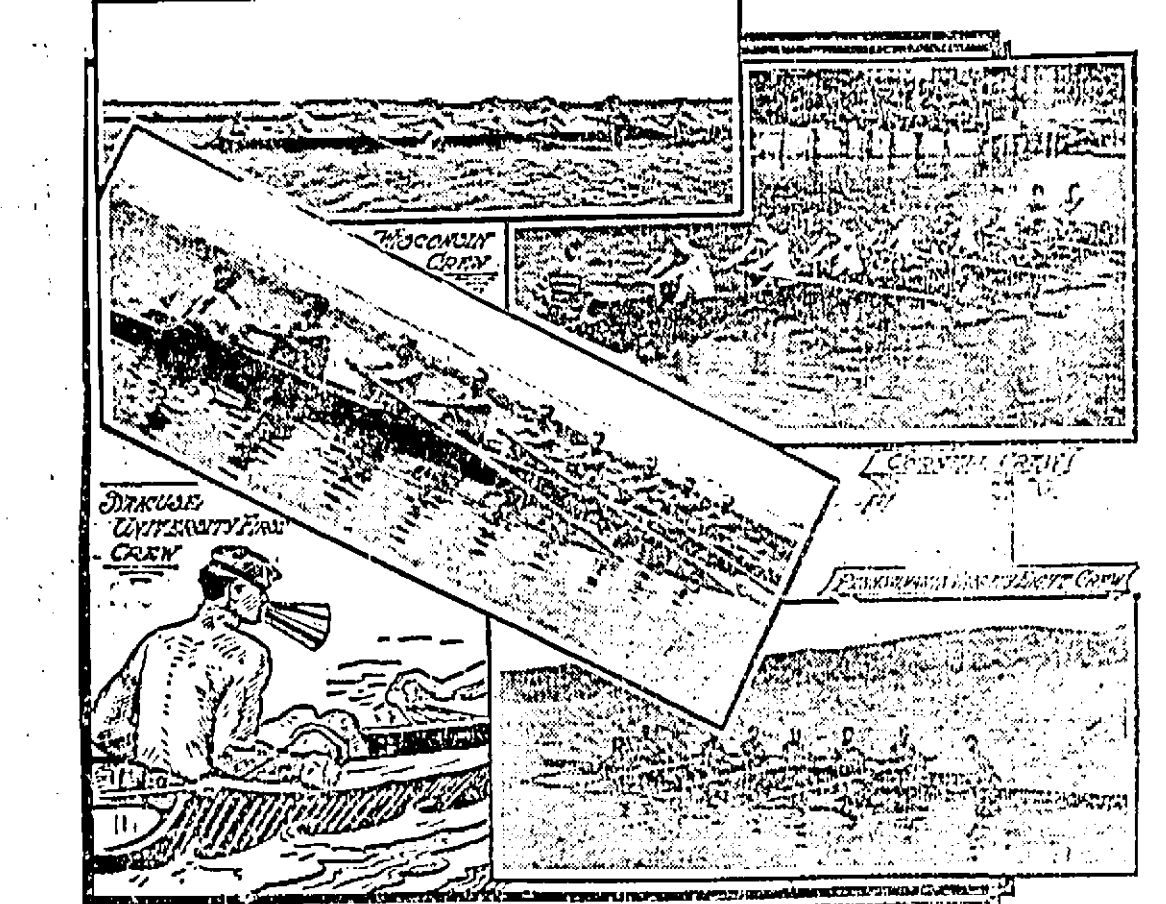

Entirely Out of Funds And None Coming in Until the First of Coming Year.

Lansing, Mich., July 2.—The state of Michigan faces six months' financial stringency owing to the condition of the state treasury. Only $200,794 remained in the general fund at the opening of the day $120,000 of this amount was paid out. The new taxes are not expected to come in before the first of next year and the state officials are trying to find some way to bridge over intervening months. It is expected arrangements will be made by some of the state institutions to get their supplies on credit until the first of the year.

TOBACCO RATES TO BE INCREASED NOW

Senate Committee Agrees to This After Conference with Sub-committee.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—The republican members of the finance committee of the senate have agreed upon a general advance of the ad valorem rate of the tariff bill. The finance committee and the sub-committee on tobacco today decided to prohibit imports in tobacco and snuff packages.

FOUR OF THE CREWS AS THEY ROWED. THERE MAY BE SOME CHANGES. READING FROM BOW TO STROKE THEY ARE: Syracuse, Cornell, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania.

that Courtney has a veteran crew that has been working together almost from the start of the season. In this respect Pennsylvania, Columbia and Syracuse are badly handicapped. All of the three latter crews are made up of substitutes for the varsity eight and therefore are not so seriously regarded.

In the eleven previous regattas Pennsylvania and Syracuse are the only ones that have been able to defeat Cornell for first place. But the Rhinoceros have won more times than Pennsylvania and Syracuse combined, the record being six wins for Cornell, three for Pennsylvania and two for Syracuse. The following table shows how the first four crews have fared since their first year since 1898:

MORE FIGHTING HAS AGAIN TAKEN PLACE

Morocco the Scene of Bloody Battles Between Pretender And Ruler's Forces.

Tangier, Morocco, July 2.—During the recent fighting in front of Fez between the forces of the pretender and the troops of the Sultan, four thousand imperial soldiers were captured, decapitated, and their heads exposed in the pretender's camp. El Kohr has captured Mequinez, and Mulid Hafid, the Sultan, was so enraged when he learned of this action on the part of his brother he had El Kohr's mother whipped in public.

CORONER DECIDES IT IS NOT LING'S BODY

New York, July 2.—The body supposed at first to be that of a Chinese man, who was found in the Hudson river last night, was not that of Leon Ling, who was charged with the murder of Elsie Stet. Today the coroner's physician declared the body was that of a white boy.

INTERESTING STORY ABOUT A COMMISSION

Evansville Paper Tells the Following on Police Commissioner Hendricks.

"C. J. Hendricks of Janesville, with his family, were over-Sunday guests of relatives, and, by the way, a good one is told on C. J. It seems that at certain times he is somewhat visionary and while in one of these peculiar moods he was imbued with the idea that he was a second disciple of Jesus Christ. He came, went to the fishing grounds Saturday, baited and hooked all day in the placid pools but the only bites he could secure were from the mosquitoes and gnats. 'Try as he would, he could not tempt the fish to even glance at the tempting bait offered them.' Claude may be successful when pleading a case before the bar of justice, but when it comes to fishing his eloquence is nil."—Evansville Review.

Chicago and North-Western SPECIAL TRAINS FOR THE EPWORTH LEAGUE DELEGATES

Three Passed Through Janesville on Their Way to Seattle Last Night.

Three special trains, carrying delegates to the Epworth League Convention at Seattle, Wash., including eight delegates from Janesville, passed through Janesville last night at 9:20, 10:15 and 10:45. The first special, at 9:20, was the first section of 511. The second special, at 10:15, was the first section of 505 and consisted of nine sleepers, carrying the Nashville, Tenn., delegates. The third special, or second section of 505, carried the Ohio, Indiana, Chicago and a few Wisconsin delegates. The trains run direct to Seattle without change over the North-Western and Canadian Pacific roads.

Engineer Barrett and Fireman Hummel with engine 10 took the Chicago special from Janesville to Baraboo. Engineer Freeman with engine 1300 brought the Nashville special north from Chicago and Engineer Sauters and Fireman Croston with engine 1081 took the train forward from Janesville. Engineer Donnelly with the 1088 brought the third train up from Chicago and took it to Baraboo. The Janesville delegates who took the 10:15 were: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Carey, A. C. and D. E. Thorpe, Clark G. Wright, and Miss K. A. Earle.

Engineer Bert Dennott is laying off today. Joe Zantopel is relieving him.

R. K. Smith dispatched last night.

Fireman Hackshaw dead-headed down from Baraboo last night and reported for work on the board.

Calhoun Will McDonald went to Chicago this morning on 518.

Engineer Townsend had the switch engine last night.

Night Foreman George Firkins went to Harvard this morning.

Fireman Garry is on the new De Kalb and moon motor-car runs.

Engineer E. A. Schoenberg is laying off.

Dispatcher John Lee ran a one-horsepower extra on the Milwaukee St. division last night with a pilot but no fireman.

Baggageman Sullivan is laying off for a few days.

Arthur Hurrell, night foreman at Truway, Minn., stopped over in Janesville last night to visit friends and left this morning on 524.

By a recent ruling brakemen must be at least one year in service before they can brake alone on a train, or act as rear-end brakeman.

It may seem like a good joke to the motorists, but the victim considers it a real mean trick. How do you see, the brakeman detective, followed the trail of the bear keg, to find it filled with sulphuric acid too exciting a tale to give in detail. The keg, carried so sedulously just his home, on a hot night, was empty, and his feelings after trying to draw a glass of acid, were too explosive to chronicle, especially as he had, waited about a mile to get in on the supposed festivities.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Work is piling up in the round-house, boiler-makers and their helpers being compelled to work overtime until ten and after to keep abreast with the work.

The way-freight engine, 851, is in the house for repairs to the driving rod.

Conductor Leahy returned to work on the Mineral Point passenger runs this evening.

Conductor Durbin went out on 350 this morning.

Engineer Stephens took 162 to Chicago this noon.

James Fox is working nights in the roundhouse.

Brakeman Murphy was on 162 today.

The entire force of whips were put to work on the old three-spot yesterday in order to get her ready for the circus parade. "Link London," who has been set up as engineer for the occasion, refused to haul the parade without the tender and also indicated that the drive wheels be grinded for the event. Failing to secure this concession, he compromised and decided to work if the new office cuspidor, with its bronze base and red top, were placed in the cab.

ROCK HILL SCENE OF BLOODY FIGHT

Families of August Boehm and August Lutz the Participants—Parties Signed Truce Today.

After many demands for warrants and threats of prosecution, whose counsels finally prevailed with the families of Charles Boehm and August Lutz in municipal court this morning and eighteen months of prospective litigation was thereby, it is hoped, successfully headed off. Judge Ellfeld and Chief of Police Appleby were the peace-makers.

The families live on Rock Hill, out toward the Illinois Institute, near the railroad station and not far from the intersection of Washington street with Center avenue. The real estate there was once platted, but the cross streets which were beautifully laid out on paper are seldom used as highways and cannot be readily distinguished from the abutting lots.

Whether Mr. Boehm trespassed on the Lutz property or was on a high-way and within his rights when the trouble began does not definitely appear. At any rate Mrs. Lutz resented his presence there about eight o'clock last evening. It is not certain just what sort of an implement she resented it with, but hoses and axes figured in the grand final melee which followed the engagement, with several members of each of the warring families as participants.

Mr. Boehm claims that he was attacked. Mrs. Lutz maintains that Boehm knocked her down several times before reinforcements arrived. A wound which produced a badly swollen forehead was sustained by her in the encounter. Mr. Boehm was badly cut up about the face and Mr. Lutz was backed in the neck by some edged weapon.

When the battle was raging at white heat Officers William Mason and Thomas Morrissey arrived on the scene with the patrol wagon. Disregarding what might or might not be the merits of the case, they decided to take Mr. Boehm to the lock-up in order to insure a discontinuance of further hostilities.

By the terms of the armistice, Mr. Boehm will keep his livestock off the Lutz premises and also the disputed territory which the Lutz family claims as a part of their domain.

JANESVILLE MAN AND A GIBBS LAKE WOMAN

William Hayes of Janesville Married Wednesday at Edgerton to Miss Della Kealey.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Gibbs Lake, July 1.—The wedding of Miss Della Kealey of this place and William Hayes of Janesville was solemnized at St. Joseph church at Edgerton, Wednesday morning. Father Huran, officiating. They were attended by a sister of the bride, Miss Theresa Kealey, and a brother of the groom, John Hayes. The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin, and the bridesmaid was attired in pink. After the ceremony they returned to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous dinner was served to the large number of invited guests who had assembled there. They were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents. T. J. SALSAMAN DIED AT HIS SON'S HOME

Former Proprietor of the Grand Hotel Passes Away Recently and Was Buried in Milwaukee.

One of the oldest travelmen on the road, T. J. Salsaman, died and was buried in Milwaukee recently at sunset. Mr. Salsaman was well known throughout southern Wisconsin. He came to Milwaukee in 1856 and engaged in business with his brother-in-law, C. D. Booth, who still resides on Prospect avenue. He continued with Mr. Booth and other partners in the cap, but and for business reasons until 1902, when he became a traveler until 1902. For several years he traveled for Sherman Brothers Co., Chicago, and two years ago he retired because of failing health, making his home with his son, T. J. Salsaman, Jr., at Oak Park. During the agitation in Milwaukee before the Civil war, Mr. Salsaman was an ardent opponent of slavery and he took a prominent part in aiding southern slaves to escape to Canada via the "underground" railway and was involved in the historical Sherman Booth riots.

In the late Eighties Mr. Salsaman was proprietor of the Grand hotel in this city for several years and had many friends in Janesville.

NEWLY MARRIED COUPLE SURPRISED BY FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Myers Rasmussen, who were married on Saturday, were pleasantly surprised last evening at their home, 551 Terrace street, by about twenty of their friends. The evening was most enjoyably spent, light refreshments being served at the close. Before departing the guests presented Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen with a handsome rocking chair.

EDGERTON MEN WERE VICTORS IN MATCH

Tobacco City Players Took Away Honors in Tennis Tournament Held Here Yesterday.

Edgerton won the tennis tournament which was played at the Y. M. C. A. court yesterday by a team of Edgerton business men and members of the Janesville Tennis Club, by getting two games more in both the singles and the doubles than the Janesville players. Next week the Janesville men will play a return game with Edgerton on the Edgerton grounds.

In the tournament solo played yesterday afternoon Dr. Merrill lost to Dr. Keenan by 6 to 3.

In the tournament doubles played in the afternoon Mabbett and Keenan were too strong for Merrill and Hendricks, being victorious by 6 to 3.

Besides the regular game of the tournament there were a number of friendly match games between the visitors and the hosts. The visiting team and the party accompanying them left for their homes last evening at 8:50.

DO NOT INTEND TO BUY THE CAR-LINE

Rumor That New Owners of Interurban Will Come to Janesville to Rescue Authoritatively Denied.

Following the visit of the new owners and officers of the Rockford & Interurban line—Emil G. Schmidt of Springfield, president; W. H. Loman of Rockford, secretary, and others—yesterday afternoon, a rumor gained circulation to the effect that negotiations for the purchase of the Janesville street railway line were in progress. The rumor was authoritatively denied today by one who is in close touch with all the plans. "The company has no thought of buying the local line," he said.

SOLVED GREEN BAY HOLD-UP MYSTERY

Detective W. E. Finnegan, Who Was Visitor Here Last Evening, Worked a Clever Ruse.

W. E. Finnegan of Madison, formerly a detective on the Green Bay force and at present in State Fire Marshal Purcell's department, visited at the local police station for a couple of hours between trains last evening. He recently returned from the incident city of the north where he worked a ruse which resulted in the capture of a man who had been reported as having been kidnapped by masked highwaymen during the early morning of June 22 was purely imaginative and that Knott himself, appropriated some $4,000 and hid the money in the attic of his home. As a result thereof, all but $3 was recovered. Mr. Finnegan collected and drilled a band of fake witnesses who went before the prisoner and testified that they were loitering about in the vicinity of the little transfer station at the time the robbery was alleged to have occurred and that they saw no masked men running away from the depot. After hearing all of this damning "evidence" the suspect broke down and acknowledged the theft.

Novel Railroad Danger Signal.
A remarkable invention for preventing railway accidents has been tried with success on the western railways of France. If the driver for any cause passes an adverse danger signal the apparatus blows a whistle on the engine continuously, and also throws up a small light under the engine driver's nose. This will render all accidents, except willful ones, impossible.

JULY FOURTH--INDEPENDENCE DAY

What a feeling of pride these words arouse in every patriot's heart! Little wonder that it is the nation's greatest holiday a day when every one should be glad, when all who enjoy the freedom of this glorious country should celebrate.

Only one day left to buy the things you'll need to make this the day of all days all that it should be. And on many of these very things there are such sharp reductions that buying will not decrease the amount you've decided to spend for your celebration enough to notice.

Up-to-Date Dental Office

Come in and let me show you the marvelous advances made in Dental appliances these days. The clumsy methods of yesterday are of the past. In my office electricity now furnishes the power for the drilling.

Light for the little lamp that can be placed far back in the mouth and gives light to detect obscure troubles.

Warm the air for the drying out of the teeth before filling.

It is the method which welds the gold into the tooth.

Boils the sterilizer which cleans each instrument after its use.

Runs the lathe for finishing plates and gold crowns, etc.

There is no more up-to-date Dental office in Wisconsin than I have right here in Janesville.

Let me show you how to have Dentistry done right.

NOTED PEDESTRIAN
DUE HERE SUNDAY

Making Tour of the World on Foot Inside Seven Years—On His Last Lap.
[Special to the Gazette.]
Saint Paul, Minn., July 2.—Charles Addington King, a war correspondent who served through the three wars, the Russo-Japanese war, and during the Spanish-American war, has been employed out of Saint Paul by local sportsmen and will reach Janesville Sunday and Chicago at noon on July 3, homeward bound on a wagon with the publishers of the Strand magazine of London to complete a journey on foot from Port Arthur, Manitoba, around the world and back to Port Arthur in seven years. He has already walked 55,000 miles, and left Saint Paul under a second wagon to complete the Saint Paul-New York section of his world-traveling trip in 70 days or forfeit $500.
King made his original start from London, traveling on foot through Europe, and making the long journey through Russia, Siberia and Manchuria to Port Arthur before starting on his world tour. His original wanderings the course he is to take and after crossing the United States on foot to Lima, Peru, thence sailing for Australia, crossing from Melbourne to Perth and back to Sydney on foot, from which point he will ship to Cape Town, working northward through Africa on foot to some Mediterranean port, thence crossing to Europe and working back through Persia, Turkey, Russia and again across Siberia to Port Arthur.
"I am now seven months ahead of my schedule," King said on leaving Saint Paul, "or in other words I am 5,000 miles to the goal. I have left seven years to complete my tour, this period being settled by agreement at the time I completed the wagon with the representatives of the Nonesuch Bros. of London before leaving Port Arthur. Seven years is more than is actually necessary, and makes allowance for accidents, sickness and other unavoidable delays. I have had some experience of that already. The preliminary tramp across Siberia was heart-breaking. The country is rough and extremely dangerous to travelers on foot without armed guard. While I speak four languages and can usually get along very well, I met many Chinese with whom I could not talk and was frequently entertained by hospitable natives who stared and laughed at me while I did the best I could with signs and motions to carry on a conversation. The languages of various tribes have bothered me more than hold-ups or robbers, although I was held up once. It was not in Siberia though, but at Dilworth, N. D., and several hoboes accomplished the work with the aid of a section of rubber hose bound with wire. They took everything I had including $10 I made selling postcards along the route."
King took off his hat and exposed a welt on the scalp which is a souvenir of his North Dakota experience. King's method of verifying his journey is simple. In this country he is following the railways, making the trip to Chicago over the North-Western. He carries a leather-bound memorandum book in which station agents sign him in and out of their stations, endorsing their signatures with the official station stamp. In foreign countries he has the dates of his arrivals and departures endorsed by local officials.

King reaches Janesville on Sunday, leaving in the afternoon. He will spend Wednesday night in Clyburn Junction, walking into Chicago the following morning. Unless he decides to change his route he will leave Chicago the following day, making the trip over the Pennsylvania line.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE TO RETIRE IN DECEMBER.
James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, at left; Liberty Hall Bailey at upper right, and Charles Frederick Scott below, who may succeed Wilson.

Washington, D. C., August 1.—James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, has just been made that the secretary of agriculture, James Wilson, of Iowa, is to retire from office in December and much speculation is rife as to his successor.
Under the Roosevelt regime there would have been little question, for Liberty Hall Bailey, the Cornell professor who was made head of the Country Life Commission, held a warm place in the affections of the president and he is a remarkable man, having devoted his life to the science of the side of farming.
But the ex-president is in Africa—unfortunately for Bailey—and from all appearances it would seem that the present chief executive has not taken very kindly to the numerous commissions originated under the strenuous president. He has thrown many of them overboard, including the country life commission, so dear to the heart of Roosevelt. With this commission also went overboard Liberty Hall Bailey. For that reason while he is a possibility it is generally conceded that President Taft will select some other than him for this department.
Charles Frederick Scott, who is at present representative in congress from the second district of Kansas, seems to be the chief contender for the head of the agriculture department.
Mr. Scott is himself closely allied with farming interests in the middle west. He is a farmer by birth but a publisher by adoption. He was born in Kansas, educated in Kansas and during an active career has represented his district and state on many occasions. He is the author of several books and is well and popularly known throughout the middle west.
When James Wilson was made secretary of agriculture under President McKinley over twelve years ago his earnest effort in the interests of the farmers were immediately appreciated to such an extent that he has been retained through parts of three administrations. While this is not a new record in itself it is practically unique to such, for the only other cabinet member to serve under three presidents was Joseph H. Hawshaw, of Georgia, who received the appointment of postmaster general under Washington and remained at the post through the Adams administration and part of the Jefferson regime. But in point of years he was considerably under Secretary Wilson, for he came in at the end of the Washington administration in 1797 and was succeeded by Gideon Granger under Jefferson's appointment in 1801, having served only six years.

In point of time Secretary Wilson's record of over twelve years has been equaled in only one other case and exceeded by but two others. Should Mr. Wilson not be re-elected until after January 1 he will have equaled the highest record—that of thirteen years. Albert Gallatin, who was appointed secretary of the treasury under Jefferson in 1801, remained in office through the balance of the Madison administration and part of the Madison administration, until he was succeeded by George Campbell in 1814, thus establishing a record of thirteen years. Gideon Granger, postmaster general under Jefferson, also remained through the Madison administration until succeeded by Return J. Meigs, Jr., in 1814, also having served in his thirteenth year. These two records are the only ones which exceed that of James Wilson's and there is only one other that equals it—that of William Wirt of Virginia, who was made attorney general under Monroe and served through the Adams administration until Jackson appointed John M. P. Chenier of Georgia in 1829, thus having served twelve years.

Two cabinet members, William H. Crawford, secretary of the treasury under Madison, and Return J. Meigs, postmaster general under Madison and Monroe, each served nine successive years in the same department, while seven have held the same cabinet position for eight consecutive years.
While Secretary Wilson may not have established an entire new precedent in the length of his service, still it can be truthfully said that no cabinet official has ever come so close to the American people and retained that grasp so long as he has. He has served his people long and faithfully and has earned a rest. This summer he will pass his sixtieth birthday in life and his career has been one of unusual activity.
Mr. Wilson was born in Scotland but came to the United States in 1852, settling in Connecticut. Three years later he went to Iowa with his parents, receiving a public school education and afterwards graduating from the Iowa State college. He engaged in farming in 1861 and soon after entered state politics as a representative in the state assembly. He served three terms, being elected speaker in the last term. He was elected to congress in 1873, made representative of the State University of Iowa and elected a director of the Agricultural Experiment station.
While the passing from office of Secretary Wilson the American farmer loses a friend who has not always been appreciated but who will go down in history as one of those men who have succeeded in holding in a practical and material way that class of the American people designated as the backbone of the Republican government—the American farmer.

APPLES A NATURAL MEDICINE.
Both as a food and as a natural medicine the apple is entitled to the position it occupies as the queen of fruits.
"An apple a day will keep the doctor away." But it should not be eaten with foods that require long time for digestion in the stomach. It is best eaten alone—in the morning by the sedentary person who should not eat a heavy meal, or in the evening by those who eat a substantial breakfast and a noon meal, and need to eat a lighter supper on account of the necessity of providing the best conditions for sound sleep. If apples don't agree it shows the real need of them. They always agree with a healthy child. Begin with a little and increase gradually to four or more, if normal and vigorous. And eat it uncooked.

THIS MACHINE SPANKS
Attempt to Lift Weight Releases
Paddle and Punishment Begins.
An Illinois man of a playful turn of mind has turned his inventive genius to the task of designing a spanking machine which also gives an electric shock to the victim. If a friend asks you to see how much you can lift he sure he does not lead you to this machine before you exert yourself. The machine consists of a platform with two handles at one end and a long paddle at the other end. The victim is placed on the platform and is instructed to grasp the handles and see how much he can lift. The sleeping position required to raise the handles leaves the victim in just the right position for the paddle, which is released by a spring, as soon as he gives the handles the slightest tug. As if it were not enough to be whaled just when he is trying to make a new strength record, the strain on the grip acts in making an electric current which gives the unfortunate subject an unpleasant surprise in front.

HEAT HASTENS A VOTE ON TAFT TAX

ROOT AND FLINT EXPECT TO PASS CORPORATION AMEND-MENT TO-DAY.

ALDRICH AGAIN IN CHARGE

Returns from Mysterious Vacation and Leads Battle Against Senator Bailey Who Still Fights for His Income Tax Plan.

Washington, July 2.—It is the intention of Senators Flint and Root to force it possible before adjournment this afternoon a vote on the corporation tax amendment to the tariff bill.

The persistence of the tariff wave which has been blistering the capital for 11 days is largely responsible for this sudden acceleration. Most of the promised oratory has wilted away under the 102-degree temperature, noticeably the promised two-day address of Senator La Follette which has disappeared entirely. Only one not speech, that of Senator Newlands of Nevada remains on the program. Senators. Norah, Bailey and Cummins want about ten minutes apiece, and then they promise to let the measure go to a vote.

No Change in Draft.

This the leaders are confident will bring in the roll call this afternoon. So far the finance committee has proposed no change in its draft of the amendment, although it is probable that before the final vote is taken something will be done to specify just the nature of charitable organizations to be exempted.

Senator Aldrich returned to day and things moved more rapidly than they did in his absence. Had he been here yesterday there seems little doubt that the measure would have gone to a roll call, instead of permitting an adjournment at 4:30 two hours and a half before the usual time. At one stage the clerk almost started the roll call, but Senator Owen of Oklahoma arose to deliver for the second or third time a speech he delivered some time ago on it and the chances were lost.

Root's Oration the Feature.

Senator Root's oration was the feature of the day. He made a splendid argument in favor of the tax proposed and although his voice is poor his legal explanations went much farther than any that had preceded him. As the time for the vote approaches the leaders are more confident than ever that they will sweep the measure into triumph. Senator Bailey, however, has announced that he will start the fight all over again, by presenting his income tax amendment now when the bill comes before the senate proper. Senator Root said:

"The corporation tax saves all of the provisions of the income tax that are constitutional and can be enforced. The income tax is, to my mind, unwise, unjust and unconstitutional, while the corporation tax is wise, and just and constitutional."

"I think," said the New York senator, "the United States ought to have the power to lay and collect an income tax because I want my country to have the power to summon every dollar possible to its relief in times of stress."

SHAKEUP IN GOTHAM POLICE.

Mayor Fires Commissioner Bingham
and Other Department Heads.

New York, July 2.—One of the most drastic upheavals in New York city's police history occurred when Mayor McClellan summarily removed Commissioner Theodore A. Bingham for insubordination after the latter's refusal to comply with certain revolutionary orders issued by the mayor.

With Gen. Bingham's retirement went several of his closest advisers and the leading supporters of his regime. As the head of the new regime the mayor at once appointed William F. Barker, hitherto a deputy commissioner, who indicated that a considerable change in the policy of the department is to be expected.

Gen. Bingham and his friends were outspoken in their declaration that the principal reason for the mayor's act was political.

"I leave the office with very little regret," said Gen. Bingham. "Politics have brought about this change. I have done the best I could to give the city a clean and honest police administration free from any tinge of party politics. But with the approach of an election the bosses are satisfied that it would never do to leave a police commissioner who gave a square deal all around."

Missouri Beer Sale Sets Mark.

St. Louis, July 2.—Although more than 80 Missouri counties are "dry" and the Sunday-closing laws are enforced vigorously the month of June shows greater consumption of beer than any corresponding month since the creation of the office of beer inspector eight years ago.

Indicted Cashier Has Fled.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 2.—Walter King, cashier of the branch bank of the Waggoner Bank & Trust Company, which was reported to have been robbed of $5,000 by a lone robber several days ago, according to the statement of King, was indicted for embezzlement. King has fled.

World's Steam Power.

The steam power in use in the world today is estimated at 120,000,000 horse power.

BABY STOLEN BY A GIRL.

Kidnaping Scare Follows Action of Child Who Loves Infants.

New York, July 2.—Alice Holzer, the 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Agnes Holzer of St. Louis, who is visiting relatives here, was the cause of such excitement in the Bronx that it was not until today that that populous section recovered itself. Alice's fondness for babies is so strong that she could not restrain herself when she saw a pretty infant sleeping in a cot in front of a store in the Bronx and she walked off with the vehicle.

Later in the evening Alice was found by a woman who had read the papers at a point far from where the child was taken. Alice could not explain why she had taken the baby, except that she always wanted one and her father jokingly had said he would steal her one some time.

SAGINAW DOCTOR INJURED.

Run Down by Auto Operated by Senator Stephenson's Nephew.

Milwaukee, July 2.—Dr. M. H. Knapp of Saginaw, Mich., was run down last night by an automobile driven by George L. Stephenson, a nephew of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson, who owns a garage in this city.

The accident took place in the heart of the business district on Grand avenue and the injured man was removed to the Emergency hospital where it was found that he had a fractured hip and internal injuries. No hope is entertained for his recovery.

Accused of $200,000 Theft.

New York, July 2.—Max Walk, alleged to be the chief of the band accused of stealing $200,000 worth of goods from the Adams Express Company within the last three years, has been arrested.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY.

Employers and Tin Workers Issue Statements on Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 2.—Both sides are claiming a victory in the strike of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers against the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company which became effective Wednesday midnight.

At the executive offices of the company it was announced that practically all of the plants comprising some 200 mills, are running full, while officials of the Amalgamated association assert that more than 7,000 men are on strike, including rollers, roughers, doublers and screwboys.

JAIL AND FINE FOR SOCIALIST.

Kansas Who Printed Reward for Kidnaping Taylor Convicted.

Ft. Scott, Kan., July 2.—Fred Warren, business manager of the Appeal to Reason, a Socialist paper published at Girard, Kan., was sentenced to six months in jail and a fine of $1,500 by Judge Pollock in the federal court.

Several weeks ago Warren was arrested for alleged violation of the postal regulations in sending through the mails a printed offer of a reward of $1,000 to anyone who would kidnap ex-Gov. S. Taylor of Kentucky and return him to that state.

Marines Back on Ships.

Washington, July 2.—That portion of the marine corps of the navy withdrawn from duty aboard ships by order of former President Roosevelt, issued November 12 last, is back on the battleships, cruisers and other vessels, in accordance with the action of congress.

MONEY EASY TO PICK UP.

Change Secured by Merely Tipping Bowl of Receiver.

The bald announcement that through the invention of a New Hampshire man money can be picked up with ease would be enough to start a stampede for the article. It must be explained, however, that this is not a mint, but a coin receiver. It facilitates the collecting of change, and you only get the money that belongs to you. The device consists of a stand with a bowl swinging on an axle at the top. It is to be placed on a store counter, and when the stockkeeper makes change he places the change in the receiver and all the customer has to do is to tip the bowl and slide the money into his hand. This may not seem like an article of paramount necessity, but anyone who has stood for several minutes waiting at a counter for a few coins that stuck fast in the coin receiver will realize that the gentleman in New Hampshire has introduced a very good invention.

FLYING MACHINE AT HIGH SPEED

WRIGHT SAILS NEW AEROPLANE
AROUND FORT MYER DRILL GROUNDS.

THIRD TRIAL BIG SUCCESS

Dayton Aviator in Preparatory Tests for Government Prize Travels 34 Miles an Hour and Controls Machine with Ease.

Washington, July 2.—With the ease and the grace of a giant bird the new Wright aeroplane, with Orville Wright at the helm, circled the Fort Myer Drill grounds many times late yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Wright would not estimate the speed at which the aeroplane traveled, and the length of the flight could not be accurately determined. Major Squier expressed the opinion that the rounds on the first flight were approximately half a mile in length. As the machine made these rounds in 50 seconds, each, it probably was traveling at a speed of 38 miles per hour.

Performances Are Inspiring.

After the apparently unsuccessful attempts of Tuesday and Wednesday, the performances of the flying machine were inspiring. While the machine oscillated at certain points, it was evident from the regularity with which these things happened that they were due to the condition of the atmosphere and not to any fault of the machine.

After the motor had been tested, the weight which gives the aeroplane its start was hoisted up and everything was ready for a flight. The propellers were cranked and Orville turned on the motor. The screws whirled around at what seemed like greater speed than on the previous occasions, and as Orville climbed into his seat Wilbur put his hand on the right wing ready to run along with the machine. Nodding to his brother, Orville released the machine and it started down the track at a rapid rate. As it neared the end of the starting rail Orville turned up the forward horizontal rudders and the machine arose into the air.

Down the field the aeroplane sailed, curved gracefully about the lower end and back up the east side of the field along the edge of Arlington cemetery. The machine seemed to be behaving beautifully.

Makes Round in 50 Seconds.

The first round was made in 50 seconds. Five times the machine skirted the field, attaining a height which varied from 15 to 40 feet.

On the sixth round Mr. Wright came to earth within a few hundred feet of the starting point, completing the flight in exactly five minutes. The landing was perfect, the machine swooping down in successive glides until within a few feet of the earth, when Orville pulled the string which stops his motor and the aeroplane glided smoothly over the grass on its skids until it came to a stop.

The machine was returned to the starting apparatus while the two brothers held a consultation. Again the aeroplane was placed in position, the motor was tested and another flight was essayed. The start was as successful as the first. In the second flight, Orville made much wider turns and rose to a greater height. It was evident that Wilbur had cautioned him to do so. The elder brother watched every detail of the flight with care. The machine encircled the field with ease and grace, responding readily to the aviator's guiding hand. Mr. Wright approached dangerously near the starting tower and flew within a few feet of the stables which line the field on the west.

Increases the Speed.

On his second flight Orville made nine rounds of the field in a few seconds less than eight minutes. He made another graceful landing, but flew dangerously close to the ground for some time before stopping his motor and descending. He held another confab with his brother before the machine was again returned to the starting rail at seven o'clock. By this time the sun was entirely obscured and dusk had settled over the fort grounds. Orville said that the arm which he used to operate the levers controlling the planes was rather tired but he did not hesitate to make another flight.

In his last attempt he remained aloft for a few seconds more than nine minutes and encircled the field 9½ times. For one complete round he flew very close to the ground, evidently preparing to land. This he did within 200 feet of the aeroplane shed. During this last flight he went higher than on his previous trials.

To Seek Pole in Airship.

Berlin, July 2.—Count Zeppelin intends to make an effort to reach the north pole in his airship. The emperor accepted protectorship over the undertaking after listening to a report on the subject at Kiel by Prof. H. Hergesell of the University of Strasbourg.

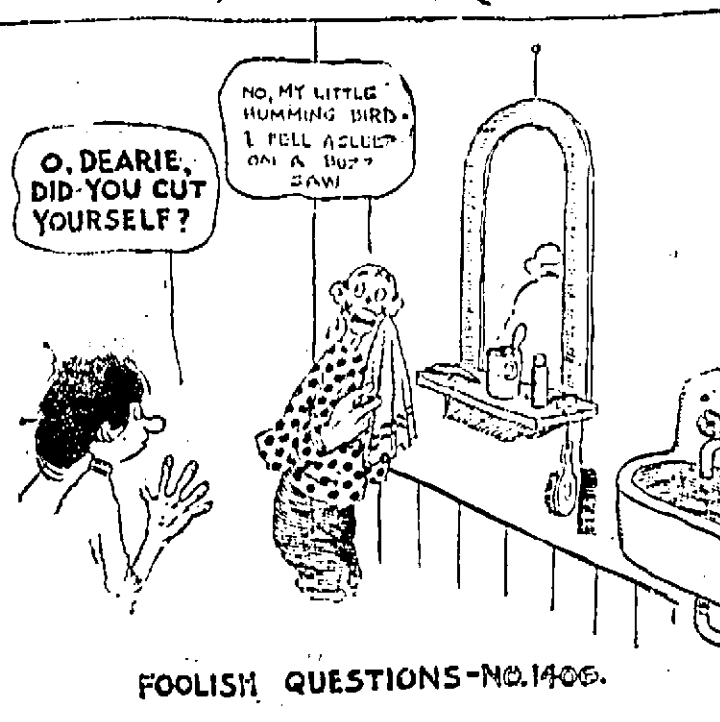

Mason Daughter's Body Exhumed.

Mason City, Ia., July 2.—Refusing to be comforted, Mrs. W. A. Holman of Minneapolis has had the body of her daughter exhumed. Miss Hazel Golden was found dead in a bath tub in this city six weeks ago. The mother believed there was something irregular about the death and Charles Smith, indicted by several juries of the city, exhumed the body and conducted a post mortem.

THE HEAVENS IN JULY.

By Professor Eric Doolittle of the University of Pennsylvania.

Venus a conspicuous evening star. The planet Mars rapidly approaching the earth. The Summer stars, etc.

The whole face of the heavens is now covered with the beautiful constellations of summer. The magnificent Milky Way, with the succession of bright and interesting groups of stars which seem to lie upon it, extends entirely from the north point of the horizon to the south, while the great Lyra and Hercules, with the delicate Northern Crown and the brilliant Vega nearby, are almost in the zenith. Perhaps most striking and beautiful of all is the Scorpion, whose outstretched claws extend to the stars at C and D, Figure 1, and whose sting lies in the Milky Way at M. Its most brilliant fiery red star, at R, is immersed in a vast nebula, the existence of which is only revealed by photography. The star was formerly much fainter than now, being fainter than the nearby star at C. It is said to have been the first star observed through the telescope in the daytime.

THE SUMMER STARS.

No one who surveys this summer sky covered with its myriad of stars, can fail to be impressed with its wonderful and delicate beauty. To study it with the most satisfaction the observer should be far away from all artificial light, and he should select an evening when the moon is absent, for the great brilliance of our satellite renders all the more delicate objects, and even the Milky Way itself, hopelessly invisible. Since full moon occurs on the third of this month, any clear evening during the last three weeks will be found very suitable for observation.

The best way to learn the summer constellations is to first follow along the Milky Way, tracing out the Archer, the Eagle, the Arrow, etc. In order, and afterward adding the groups of the Scorpion, the Serpent, Hercules, etc., which border the Milky Way, until the whole face of the sky has been covered. In a very few minutes the observer will find that he has learned all of the brighter constellations.

There are a very few, little known, faint groups which are not marked on Figure 1. The faint stars near N, just below the singular group of the Dolphin, are known as the Little Horse; those near H, forming a long stream between the Arrow and the Swan, are the Fox and the Goose, while those near the Swan in the region B form the group known as the Lizard. The faint stars near T all belong to the great constellation Hercules. It is above these in the position P, one-third of the way from the star at R, that of K, that the great star cluster in Hercules is situated. This, the most magnificent cluster of thousands of stars apparently packed closely together, and arranged in a remarkable spiral form. The cluster is distinctly visible as a little cloud to the naked eye.

The possessor of a small telescope will see other interesting clusters, U, L and V, the second being a remarkable star cloud about half as broad as the moon, and the last a beautiful object plainly visible to the naked eye as a bright spot in the Milky Way.

All this region of the sky is rich in wonderful clusters of stars, and the observer can doubtless discover for himself several of the brighter ones. It is known that these great clouds are formed of observed on July 7, 8 h. 5 m. P. M., and July 20, 8 h. 23 m. (Eastern Time), the moon then passing between us and the star. Moons may be observed to emerge from eclipses on July 8, 1 h. 38 m. a. m. and July 23, 8 h. 38 m. a. m.

On July 2 the nearly full moon may be seen to pass over the star at Z, Figure 1, the star disappearing at 7 h. 25 m. a. m. as viewed from Washington, and appearing at 8 h. 4 m. These times vary greatly, however, for observers at different places. The Earth is so near to Moon that observers in a higher latitude than 45 degrees will look over the north edge of the moon and not see the Attacked by Mother Owl.

An extraordinary incident has occurred at Hatford, Cheshire, England. A young owl was discovered helpless in a garden, having apparently fallen from a nest hidden among the ivy of an old wall. The owl was replaced, but later a second youngster was found and both were placed in a comfortable box. Quietly passing the box a few nights after the gentleman who made the discovery was suddenly attacked by the parent bird, who flew straight from the nest in his face, striking him under the eye with her claws, and scratching his cheeks and nose. She then immediately returned to the nest.

star hidden at all, the moon appearing to pass below the star; those more than 45 degrees below our equator will similarly observe the moon pass above the star. It is for this reason that the shape of the earth can be determined with great accuracy by simply observing the apparent path of the moon over the sky.

On July 23 there will occur an unusually brilliant shower of shooting stars. These will dart outward in all directions from a point a little southeast of the star at W, Figure 1, and move slowly over the sky. They can be best observed after midnight.

TWO LIGHTWEIGHTS WHO MEET ON THE COAST SATURDAY. DICK HYLAND ON LEFT, LEACH CROSS ON RIGHT.

Lightweight pugilistic interest of the week centers in the battle of Leach Cross and Fighting Dick Hyland on the coast Saturday. Hyland stayed off Fighting Nelson for 22 rounds recently only to suffer a knockout in the twenty-third. The meeting with Cross serves to introduce a new figure in western pugilistic circles. Cross has long been a favorite in New York city, where he is a practicing dentist. He is a Jewish fighter and is the pride of the ghetto. When Leach stacked up against Paucy McFarland his friends were out in force and looked to see Stockyards

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Adrian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from a female weakness and disease, and I could not stand more than a minute at a time. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. One day I was reading how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. Before I had taken one bottle I was better, and now I am completely cured."—LENA V. HENRY, Route No. 3, Adrian, Ga.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drug out of a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. E. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

Sick Man or Woman

Do You Know That 90 Per Cent of Sick People Suffer Needlessly?

Get Rid of the Cause; Chiropractic Does It

I tell you there is a mighty lot of difference between "Reducing Symptoms" by "soaking" the patient with experimental medicine and REMOVING the CAUSE by the CHIROPRACTIC SCIENCE. IT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FAILURE AND SUCCESS. IF YOU ARE SICK OR AILING YOU OUGHT TO INVESTIGATE IT. PROVE THE TRUTH OR UNTRUTH OF MY STATEMENTS.

I believe I know a way whereby you can be well, no matter how long sick or how many "Doctors" have failed. My method removes the cause of disease from your bodies. Medical treatment is chiefly successful in removing money from your possession to that of the doctor. Don't you think you had better see me and talk this over?

Hundreds of your neighbors KNOW what I ask you to believe. You suffer by choice if you neglect to take advantage of the marvelous efficiency of Chiropractic Science.

COME IN AND SEE ME—YOU WILL BE THANKFUL IF YOU DO

G A Z E T T EBUSY TIMES FOR THE COMMITTEESTHREE BIG PARADES WILL BE BEST EVER SEEN IN THE CITY.

EVERYTHING WILL BE READY

Celebration July 5th Will Start Early
And Last Until Late in the Evening.Janesville's celebration for Nineteen Hundred will be the best yet undertaken.
This appears to be the consensus of opinion. The three parades promise to be the best ever seen in the city.
The street performances better, the decorations finer and the bands able to give more music. The only thing needed now is to meet all the bills for this grand gathering.Chairman Wortendyke again calls attention to the facts that some two hundred dollars will have to be raised yet. This means that many who have not contributed will have to do so to meet the deficiency that is bound to exist. The bills placed in convenient places can be found by all and small contributions as well as large ones are invited. Old residents of Janesville will find a hearty greeting from the members of the reception committee composed of Phil Norreross, chairman; C. L. Fife, M. G.
Jeffers, William Smith, Judge Sals,
C. S. Jackson, M. O. Mann, S. M.
Smith and H. F. Bliss. A large delegation is assured from Chicago and cravids will be here from Milwaukee, Madison and other intermediate points.Dr. Edden, who is chairman of the automobile parade in the evening, is in Milwaukee today making arrangements for special features for his portion of the day's entertainment. The parade will be headed by a band of eighteen pieces, seated on a huge automobile band wagon which will be somewhere in the procession.The cars will all be decorated and red, fire and auto torches will make the long string of motor driven machines one sight of beauty. It is thought that some sixty cars will be in the procession which will form up on Milwaukee avenue and proceed down town at eight o'clock. There are several features of the parade that will be hits, but are deep secrets as yet. Several outside automobilists have written they would like to take part in the parade and all will be welcomed.Chairman Eugene Fish of the morning parade is meeting with success in his endeavors to have this section of the day's program a prominent feature. There will be more displays than ever before and several very handy floats will appear in the line. The bands will all be utilized and the line of march will cover the business section of the city. Mr.
Fish, however, would be glad to hear from any others who will take part.For the Nineteen Hundred parade, Chairman McKoy is almost beside himself and blubbing over with the success of the stunts. "Why just think of it, we will have a procession half again as big as two years ago," he said today. "That is, I mean right now and there will be lots more stunts arranged for at the last minute. No, I cannot tell what will be the most important feature of the parade as there are so many to choose from, all of which are on an order of gigantic splendor and originality.
One of the most features of the parade will be the celebrated Oriental dancer, Madam Isabella Alensum and her entire band. She will appear on a float in the afternoon parade in all her Oriental finery, making her first and only appearance in this country."
Mr. McKoy arranged for this feature especially, at a high salary.The medals which the Sultan of Soud presented to the Young Men's club on their successful airplane flight while visiting the Kingdom of Soud, have arrived. They are magnificent affairs and are closely guarded by a faithful servant of the two infamously brother, a Numidian of gigantic stature who will also watch over their wonderful infernal machine during their stay in the city. They are of solid gold plate.Two numerous to mention are the different features of the parade but the public is promised a rare treat by the vision of Miss Susan such and the party figures of the famous Nonesuch Twins. No advertising features are allowed in the afternoon parade.Aside from the rest room for women which will be opened by the Merchants' and Mechanics' bank, several merchants have arranged to place benches outside their places of business for the accommodation of the visitors and this idea appears to be a good one. It is also understood that in several localities the water mains will be tapped and drinking fountains attached with cups for the thirsty.Bills announcing the celebration are to be found on Michigan avenue, Chicago, and Milwaukee is today to be plastered with them. Dr. Edden has taken charge of the flying squad that went there for that purpose this morning.GAVE ADDRESS ON BUSINESS SCIENCEW. T. Goffe of Milwaukee, Spoke Before Assemblage of Business Men
At Y. M. C. A. Building.W. T. Goffe, superintendent of the Sheldon School of Business at Chicago, delivered a very interesting and inspiring address on "The Science of Business" before an assemblage of representative business men of the city at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening.
Science, he defined as knowledge classified, coordinated and organized, and business might be said to be human energy applied to the creation and distribution of materials for human happiness. A man's individual success and value depended on his efficiency, as measured by the amount of supervision he requires at the hands of some superior. The quantity of supervision would always equal the sum total of one's errors of management and commission. Efficiency, this ability, plus reliability, plus action spelled success.GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

Andrew.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cainville Center, July 1.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Townsend, Wednesday evening, June 30, at 6 o'clock, occurred the wedding of their daughter, Miss Beattie Townsend, to David Andrew. The strains of the "Wedding March" played by Miss Hattie Weaver, the bride party, entered the room and took their places under an arch. Twin sisters of the bride, the Misses Eva and Ella Townsend, attended her, and Paul Chase and Bruce Townsend acted as best man. Rev. E. B. Arnold performed the ceremony in the presence of one hundred and twenty-five guests and relatives. The bride was beautifully attired in white chiffon.After the ceremony a tempting three-course luncheon was served.
Then, while the friends were eating, the bride and groom slipped away and went to Janesville, where they were to be met by their friends, carrying them off in his auto. At Janesville they took the train for Milwaukee. After a brief wedding trip they will be at home in Cainville, where the groom is a partner with his father in business.The guests from out of town were:

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

A handsome young soldier of fortune, a prince of enchanting beauty, two eccentric adventurers who leave willa disposing of the island of Japan and its ruby mines, two heirs who must marry within a year to inherit the property despite the fact that they are already married, a shrewd American lawyer, a scheming British solicitor, a pretty stenographer, a prince who is musical and profligate and a horde of fanatical Moslems who will inherit the riches of Japan provided the heirs do not marry each other—these are the leading characters in a romance which for genuine novelty, thrilling and unusual situations, live American humor and the pathos of a great but apparently hopeless love has rarely been equaled and never surpassed.

CHAPTER I.

THE LATE MR. SKAGGS.

THE DEATH OF THASWELL SKAGGS was a startling event, to say the least, inapplicable though the expression may seem. He attained the end of a long life by tumbling aimlessly into the mouth of a crater on the island of Japan, somewhere in the mysterious south seas. The world had quite thoroughly forgotten him during the twenty odd years immediately preceding his death. It was, however, noticeably worth while to remember him at this particular time. He left a last will and testament that bade fair to distress as well as startle a great many people on both sides of the Atlantic.

In Boston the law firm of Bowen & Thro was puzzling itself beyond reason in the effort to anticipate and circumvent the plans of the firm of Bosworth, Newnes & Gropwin, London, E. C., while on the other side of the Atlantic Messrs. Bosworth, Newnes & Gropwin were blindly struggling to do precisely the same thing in relation to Messrs. Bowen & Thro.

Without seeking to further involve myself I shall at once conduct the reader to the nearest of these law offices.

"Pretty badly tangled, I declare," said Mr. Thro, staring hopelessly at his senior partner.

"Hopelessly," agreed Mr. Bowen, very much as if he had at first intended to groan.

Before them on the table lay the contents of a bulky envelope, a long and stupendous letter from their London correspondents and with it a copy of Thaswell Skaggs' will. Mr. Bowen recently had been named as joint executor of the will, together with Sir John Allenercombe of London, W. C., one time neighbor of the late Mr. Skaggs. A long and exasperating cablegram had touched somewhat irresolutely upon the terms of the will, besides notifying him that one of the heirs resided in Boston. He was instructed to apprise this young man of his good fortune.

There was one very important, perhaps imposing, feature in connection with the old gentleman's will—he was decidedly sound of mind and body when it was uttered.

When such astute lawyers as Bowen & Thro get up to amazement, the usual forerunner of consternation, it is high time to regard the case as startling.

"Read it again, Bowen."

"The will?"

"No; the letter."

Whereupon Mr. Bowen again read aloud the letter from their London correspondents, this time slowly and speculatively.

"They seem as much upset by the situation as we," he observed reflectively.

"Extraordinary state of affairs, I must say."

"And I don't know what to do about it. I don't even know how to begin. They're both married."

"And not to each other."

"She's the wife of a Lord knows what of a lord, and he's married to an uncommonly fine girl, they say, notwithstanding the fact that she has larger social aspirations than he has means."

"And if that all important clause in the will is not carried out to the letter the whole fortune goes to the boys' wives."

"Practically the same thing. He calls them 'natives' that's all. It looks to me as though the boys' wives will get the old man's millions."

"I don't see how anything short of Providence can alter the situation."

"Thank heaven, Bowen, he names you as executor, not me."

"I shall decline to serve. It's an impossible situation, here. In this first place, Skaggs was not an intimate friend of mine. I met him in Constantinople five years ago and afterward handled some business for him in New York. He had no right to impose upon me as I?"

"But why should you hesitate? You have only to wait for the year to roll by and then turn your troubles over to the natives. Young Browne can't marry Miss Ruthven inside of a year simply because there is no Miss Ruthven. She's Lady—Lady—what's the name?"

"Deppingham."

"And Browne already has one Mrs. Browne to his credit, don't you see. Well, that settles it, I'd say. It's hardly probable that Browne will murder or divorce his wife, nor is it likely that her ladyship would have the courage to dispose of her inheritance in other way on such short notice."

"But it means millions to them, here."

"That's their unfortunate lookout. You are to act as an executor, not as a matrimonial agent."

"But, man, it's an outrage to give all of it to those wretched islanders. How worth says that rubies and sapphires grow there like mushrooms."

"Bosworth also says that the islanders are as thrifty, intelligent and will fight for their rights. There are lawyers among them, he says, as well as jewel diggers and fishermen."

"Skaggs and Lady Deppingham's grandfather were the only white men who ever lived there long enough to find out what the island had stored up for civilization. That's why they bought it outright, but I'm hanged if I can see why he wants to give it back to the natives."

"Perhaps he owes it to them. He doubtless bought it for a song, and, contrary to all human belief, he may have resurrected a conscience. Anyhow, there remains a chance for the heirs to break the will."

"It can't be done, here; it can't be done. It's as clean an instrument as ever survived a man."

It is by this time safe for the reader to assume that Mr. Thaswell Skaggs had been a rich man and therefore privileged to be eccentric. He came of a sound old country family in upper England, but seems to have married a bit above his station. His wife was serving as governess in the home of a certain earl when Thaswell won her heart and dragged her from the exalted position of undying other people's children into the less conspicuous one of caring for her own.

Their only son was killed by a runaway horse when he was twenty, and their daughter became the wife of an American named Browne when she was scarcely out of her teens. It was then that Mr. Skaggs, practically childless, determined to make himself widowed as well.

He magnanimously deeded the unentailed farm to his wife, turned his securities into cash and then set forth upon a voyage of exploration. It is common history that upon one dark, still night in December he said goodby forever to the farm and its mistress, but it is doubtful if either of them heard him.

To be "jolly well o'pen" with him Mrs. Skaggs did a most praiseworthy thing. She died six months later, but before doing so she made a will in which she left the entire estate to her daughter, effectively depriving the absent husband of any chance to reclaim his own.

Thaswell Skaggs was in Shanghai when he heard the news. It was on a Friday. His informant was that erstwhile friend Jack Wyckholme. Naturally Skaggs felt deeply aggrieved with the fate which permitted him to capitulate when unconditional surrender was so close at hand. His lady gave for one brief quarter of an hour did more to upset the progress of Christianity in the far east than all the idols in the Chinese empire.

"There's nothing in England for me, Jackie. My girl's a blooming foreigner by this time, and she'll sell the blessed farm, of course. She's an American, God bless 'er 'art. I dare say I'd go to 'er and say I'd like my farm back again she'd want to fork 'over, but 'er 'usband wouldn't be for that sort of extravagance." "I'd boot me off the island."

"The United States isn't an island, Tazzy," explained Mr. Wyckholme, gulping his brandy and soda.

Mr. Wyckholme was the second son of Sir Somebody-or-other and had married the vicar's daughter. This put him into such bad odor with his family that he hurried off to the dogs—and a goodly sized megalomaniac besides if the records of the megalomaniac's asylum are to be credited. His wife, after enduring him for sixteen years, secured a divorce. Accepting the world as his home, he ventured forth to visit every nook and cranny of it. In course of time he came upon his old time neighbor and beyond friend, Thaswell Skaggs, in the city of Shanghai. Neither of them had seen the British Isles in two years or more.

"You take no risk."

"Well, that's neither here nor there, Jackie. I haven't a 'ome, and you haven't a 'ome, and we're wanderers on the face of the earth. My wife played me a nasty trick, didn't she? Like that, I say marriage is a bloody nuisance."

"Marriage, say boy, is the convalescence from a love affair. One wants to get out the worst way, but has to stay in till he's jolly well cured. For my part, I'm never going back to England."

"Nor I. It would be just like me, Jackie, to have a relapse and never get out again."

The old friends took an inventory. Jack Wyckholme, gentleman's son and no-do-well, possessed of a fine and a fine, an appetite and excellent spirits, while Thaswell Skaggs exhibited a balance of 11,000 in a Shanghai bank, a fairly successful trade in Celestial necessities and an unbounded eagerness to change his luck.

"I have a proposition to make to you, Tazzy," said Mr. Wyckholme late in the night.

"I think I'll listen to it, Jackie," replied Mr. Skaggs, quite soberly.

As the outcome of this midnight proposition Thaswell Skaggs and John Wyckholme arrived two months later at the tiny island of Japan, somewhere south of the Arabian sea, there to remain until their dying days and there to accumulate the wealth which gave the first named a chance to make an extraordinary will. For thirty years they lived on the island of Japan. Wyckholme preceded Skaggs to the grave by two winters, and he willed his share of everything to his partner of thirty years' standing. But there was a proviso in Wyckholme's bequest, just as there was in that of Skaggs. Each had made his will some fifteen years or more before death, and each had bequeathed his fortune to the survivor. At the death of the survivor the entire property was to go to the grandchild of each testator, with certain reservations to be mentioned later on, each having by investigation discovered that he possessed a single grandchild.

The island of Japan had been the home of a Mohammedan race, the outgrowth of Arabian adventurers who had fared far from home many years before Wyckholme happened upon the island by accident. It was a British possession, and there were two or three thousand inhabitants, all Mohammedans. Skaggs and Wyckholme purchased the land from the natives, protected and eased their rights with the government and proceeded to realize on what the natives had unwittingly prepared for them. In course of time the natives repented of the deal which gave the Englishmen the right to pick and sell the rubies and other precious stones that they had been trading away for such trifles as silks, gongs and women. A revolution was imminent, whereupon the owners organized the entire population into a great stock company, retaining four-fifths of the property themselves. This seemed to be a satisfactory arrangement, despite the fact that some of the more warlike leaders were difficult to appease. It is only necessary to add that the beautiful island of Japan, standing like an emerald in the sapphire waters of the orient, brought millions in money to the two men who had been unlucky in love.

And now, after more than thirty years of voluntary exile, both of them were dead, and both of them were buried in the heart of an island of rubies, their deed and their deeds remaining to posterity—with reservations.

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Hold!" Mr. Brentwick elevated his fine white eyebrows and sat up briskly. "My dear boy, that was the most delectable dish on the entire menu. I have been reserving it, I don't mind saying, that I might better enjoy the full roll of it. I may answer you best, perhaps, by asking you to seem what I offered to the fat secondly respectful consideration, my dear sir."

He leveled a forefinger at the card. At first glance it conveyed nothing to the younger man's heightened intelligence. He puzzled over it, twisting his brows out of alignment. An ordinary oblong slip of thin white cardboard, it was engraved in fine script as follows: "Mr. George Burgoyne Calendar, 31 Aspen Villas, 8, W."

"Oh!" exclaimed Kirkwood at length, standing up, his face bright with understanding. "You?"

"Incidentally assented the elder man."

Impulsively Kirkwood leaned across the table. "Dorothy," he said tenderly and when the girl's happy eyes met his quickly drew her attention to the card.

Then he rose hastily and went over to stand by the window, staring intently into the blank faces of night beyond his unseen panes.

Behind him there was a confusion of little noises—the sound of a chair pushed hurriedly aside, a rustle of skirts, a happy sob or two, low voices intermingling—sighs. Out of it finally came the father's accents.

"There, there, my dear, my dearest don't!" protested the old gentleman. "Positively I don't deserve a tithe of this. I—The young old voice quivered and broke in a happy laugh. "You must understand," he continued more soberly, "that no consideration of any sort is due me. When we married I was too old for your mother, child. We both know it, both believed it would never matter. But it did. By her wish I went back to America. We were to see what separation would do to heal the wounds disunion had caused. It was a very foolish experiment. Your mother died before I could return."

There fell a silence, again broken by the father. "After that I was in no haste to return. But some years ago I came to London to live. I communicated with the old colonel, asking permission to see you. It was refused in a manner which precluded the subject being reopened by me. I was informed that if I persisted in attempting to see you you would be disinherited. He was very angry with me—justly, I admit. One must grow old before one can see how unforgivably one was wrong in youth. So I settled down to a quiet old age, determined not to disturb you in your happiness. Ah—Kirkwood!"

The old gentleman was standing, his arm around his daughter's shoulder, when Kirkwood turned.

"Come here, Philip. I'm explaining to Dorothy, but you should hear. The evening I called on you, dear boy, at the Plaza, returning home I received a message from my solicitors, whom I had instructed to keep an eye on Dorothy's welfare. They informed me that she had disappeared. Naturally I canceled my plans to go to Munich and stayed, employing detectives. One of the first things they discovered was that Dorothy had run off with an elderly person calling himself George Burgoyne Calendar. The name I had discerned when I found that to acknowledge me would imperil my daughter's fortune. The investigations went deeper. Charles, let us continue to call him, had been to see me only this afternoon to inform me of the plot they had discovered. This Italian woman and her son—it seems that they were legitimately in the line of inheritance, Dorothy out of the way. But the woman was—ah—had lost. Somehow she got into communication with this fat rogue, and together they plotted it out. Charles doesn't believe that the Italian woman expected to enjoy the Burgoyne estates for very many days. Her plan was to step in when Dorothy stepped out, gather up what she could, realize on it and decamp. That is why there was so much excitement about the jewels—naturally the most valuable item on her list, the most easy to convert into cash. The man Mulready we do not place. He seems to have been a shady character. The latter's ordinary line of business was diamond smuggling, though he would condescend to almost anything in order to turn a dishonest penny."

"That seems to exhaust the subject. But one word more. Dorothy, I am old enough and have suffered enough to know the wisdom of seizing one's happiness when one may. My dear, a little while ago you did a very brave deed. Under fire you said a most courageous, womanly, creditable thing. And Philip's rejoinder was only second in nobility to yours. I do hope to goodness that you two blessed youngsters won't let any addle pated scribbles stand between yourselves and the prize of romance, your indelible inheritance!"

Abruptly Brentwick, who was no longer Brentwick, but the actual Calendar, released the girl from his embrace and hopped nimbly toward the door. "Really, I must see about that petrol!" he cried. "While it's perfectly true that Charles lied about its running out, we must be getting on. I'll call you when we're ready to start!"

And the door crashed to behind him. Between them was the table. Dorothy the girl stood with head erect, dim tears glimmering on the lashes of those eyes with which she met Philip's steady gaze so fearlessly.

Shrugging about them, the silence deepened. Fascinated, though his heart was faint with longing, Kirkwood faltered on the threshold of his kingdom.

"Dorothy! You did mean it, dear?"

She laughed a little, low, sobbing laugh that had its source deep in the hidden sanctuary of her heart of a child.

"I meant it, my dearest. If you'll have a girl so bold and forward, who can't wait till she's asked, but throws herself into the arms of the man she loves—Philip, I meant it, every word!"

And as he went to her swiftly, round a table, she turned to meet him, arms uplifted, her scarlet lips streaming, the brown and bewitching lashes drooping over her wondrously lighted eyes.

THE END.

Expensive.

"They say he died poor." "He did. You know he raised a large family of girls and every one of them graduated."

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

WHEN you picked up your paper today you undoubtedly read in the ordinary day's news of a dozen—maybe many more—people who died by accident.

Perhaps of some painful item you said:

"How terrible."

But you probably never thought, "That might just as well have been me."

And yet it might have.

It is almost impossible for a well, strong person to truly sense the thought of dying.

I know a girl who always says: "If I die," because she is so full of life and spirit that she simply cannot realize she will not always be alive.

"Why on earth are you talking about such gruesome things?" you probably say.

Well, just this. If anything should happen to you at any time would your affairs be at all in the state you would like to leave them?

I mean, "Have you a will?" "Are your money affairs in any kind of order?" "Are there no letters in existence that you would rather not have become other people's property?"

The whole subject came suddenly into my mind yesterday when the automobile in which I was riding leaped the curb, stood on two wheels and aimed for a telegraph pole.

We missed the pole by the fraction of an inch but when we had gotten back to terra firma and slowed down to take account of stock we all realized that we had faced death.

And after the first reaction of thanksgiving my mind flew straight to a little cupboard and several bundles of letters that I would rather have not destroyed and I remembered that I had never made a will and realized that it would be very hard for anyone to get the thread of my money affairs.

The three women in the automobile—one a woman of considerable property—admitted that the condition of affairs was much the same with them.

"I couldn't bear to make a will," a silly little woman said to me the other day. "It would make me feel as if I were going to die."

That is superbly absurd.

The sensible woman will surely realize if she stops to think it over, that to be prepared in every way for death does not bring it one whit the nearer.

Forty Years Ago

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 2, 1890.—Serious Accident.—Yesterday afternoon at 11:00 A. Hyatt Smith and wife were driving near the depot when a horse, a spirited animal, became frightened at a passing engine, turned suddenly around and captured the carriage and throwing Mr. and Mrs. S. out, breaking Mr. Smith's leg and bruising Mrs. Smith severely.

A New Arrival.—We saw pass through the streets this afternoon a sight that is not often witnessed in these latter days. I was an old-fashioned Pennsylvania four-horse team, with white breeding on the harness, and the horses driven by one Mrs. W. The heavy blue box on the wagon was of the same style and build of those used to climb the mountains between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia long before the days of railroad, telegraph, or power presses.

The Train Or.—A letter from Mr. Cassaday states that the train which carried our Janesville friends out to Salt Lake, ran into a culvert which had been washed out by the rain, and seriously damaged all the cars except the one they were in. The accident took place in the night, 150 miles this side of Ogden, but no one was seriously hurt except the conductor, who had some of his ribs broken. All the cars went off except the sleeping car in which our friends were "dreaming the hours away."

No Paper.—As the printers celebrate the 3rd and the editors the 5th on the next issue of the Gazette will be on Tuesday.

Celebration.—H. A. Patterson, Esq., is to deliver the oration at the celebration tomorrow at Willowater.

Hon. C. G. Williams speaks at Watertown on the 3rd and at Watertown on the 5th.

G. R. Peck, Esq., orator at Mukwonago on the 3rd and at West Milton on the 5th.

A. M. Thompson will deliver the oration at Evansville on the 5th.

A Yankee Revival.—Americans are more eager than Londoners in searching out historical places, more keenly interested in them, and have brought to light and popular recollection many shrines which London had forgotten.—Butte (Mont.) Miner.

WANTED—Miscellaneous.

Almost anything can be advertised for under this heading, and it is remarkable what odd jobs these want ads do. You have probably seen some pet babies, such as cats, dogs, birds, and even a few horses, and you have seen some furniture and want to buy certain kinds of pieces. A want ad will get you what you want. It is a clearing house for all kinds of things. It reaches people in all circumstances. If your want can be satisfied, no matter what it is, a want ad will do it.
